JD Edwards in the Cloud

ERP has strategic importance to any business and is a key component in a broader IT strategy that includes such the road to digital transformation with mobility, the Internet of Things (IoT), and cloud deployment. A fundamental reason to move to a cloud environment is greater business agility, high efficiency, scalability, and availability, along with significant cost reductions in capital expenditure. As a Platinum Partner, Cyret is partner with Oracle, who has made significant investments in developing cloud services with solutions at every layer of the technology stack.

Going ahead our customers who deploy their solutions in the cloud will have access to Oracle's entire technology stack in the cloud in the same way as they did in on-premise deployments.

Oracle has introduced its Oracle JD Edwards EnterpriseOne on Oracle's Cloud Infrastructure as a Service (IaaS) and Platform as a Service (PaaS) offerings, which include the Oracle Compute Cloud Service and the Oracle Database Cloud Service.

Oracle has extended its commitment to JD Edwards EnterpriseOne by announcing JD Edwards EnterpriseOne within Oracle Infrastructure as a Service (IAAS) on the Oracle Public Cloud. This new solution will enable your organization to innovate in the digital economy with enhanced platform choices and deployment options ensure your business is future proof and stable for the decades to come.

Learn more how you can gain control of your business and forge ahead with a competitive advantage with ERP in the cloud.
